For investment firm 777 Partners, the global design firm Stantec set out to design a space with materials that establish an understated but luxurious aesthetic set against the Miami skyline. In an open conference room, Muro wall panels covered in dark grey Umbria leather line the expansive wall for a bold yet refined statement. Elsewhere in the room, the banquette seating and high-back conference room chairs are upholstered in Andes in two different greys. A seating grouping features chairs in the rich sueded leather of Ducale Velour in the adjacent reception area. And to add some subtle yet sophisticated patterning, custom laser engraved leather tiles cover a wall in the kitchenette.

(Please note that Fold Laser Engraved Tiles is a less actively marketed product; however, may be ordered with certain minimums.)
